Logo development from 1959 until today

The 65 years of Florett GmbH

A company with history

Wilhelm Hendrich along with seven staff established the Florett shoe factory.

Even back then he was in tune with the latest developments. Assisted by a good dose of courage, products of outstanding quality and close cooperation with specialist shoe retailers, he soon established a strong position in the market. Success soon came and Wilhelm Hendrich took the first steps towards establishing his products on the international stage.

The beginning was not easy. Between 1959 and 1969 the site had to be frequently developed and extended and the last hall was built during 1981 and 1982. Because of the short transportation routes within the factory, the U-shape proved to be extremely functional in practice.

At the end of the 1990s the founder's grandson, Martin Hübner, took over the management of the company and opened up a completely fresh market with the new products and the Varomed brand. With good management and sales team plus unwavering supply capability and commitment, he created a strong position for the company in the healthcare market, while at the same time retaining the well-established and proven corporate virtues in spite of the new direction of the company's business.

Coinciding with the start of the Covid pandemic Sarah Schubert, a business school graduate and new to the shoe industry, assumed responsibility for this company steeped in tradition. Displaying finesse in her decisions, she retained what had proven its worth, presenting the company in a contemporary image that combined tradition with modernity. But without profit maximization as the prime objective. Company policy is guided by the principle of preserving workplaces and the mission of retaining employment and earnings in Germany. Quality, reliability and skills, values that many people long for, remain firmly in place and take a position of priority now and in the future. In 2024 we are now celebrating the 65th anniversary of Florett GmbH and look forward to future cooperation with all our partners.

Varomed - vision

Everybody should have the possibility to wear shoes that fit!

With our high-quality medical products we would like to offer our customers a higher mobility and therefore a higher quality of life. Every day we work on developing our product range so that we can offer an individual solution for every foot problem.

Varomed - experience

German shoe factory since 1959

As a longstanding German shoe manufacturer we are able to interlink tradition and innovation. Since 1959 we have been creating high-quality products and offer a suitable solution for the most different foot problems. We put a lot of experience as well as heart and soul into the development of new shoes in order to make them not only functional but also optically appealing.

Varomed - quality

Varomed The original with the V

As the German shoe manufacturer Florett we sell our products under the registered brand name Varomed. Varomed products have established themselves as a German quality product, which is why we can proudly say: "We are the original with the V!" We pay attention to fair working conditions, sustainable production processes and excellent quality of our shoes. As a medical product manufacturer we are obliged to follow strict legal guidelines. Our certification according to DIN EN ISO 13485 certifies that we respect those.

Varomed - sustainability

Made in Germany & Made in Europe

Sustainability is a central value for our shoe factory. Therefore, the majority of our products is manufactured directly at our company location in Bavaria and is hence "made in Germany". We also focus on sustainability when it comes to material purchasing for our shoes. We cooperate solely with EU suppliers and watch out for particularly short transportation routes. By choosing our shoes you can also reduce your ecological footprint.

Our quality policy

Our vision is that everybody should be able to wear shoes that fit provided that foot problems can be solved by volume production.

The manufacture of high quality medical footwear becomes a necessity if this idea is to become reality. We can only achieve this by meeting the standards imposed on us by legislation and the standards we impose on ourselves.

The wearers of our shoes and the health of their feet lie at the heart of our efforts to meet their expectations and requirements.

So that we can hold our position as a forward-looking company, we direct our attention towards the adoption of innovative thinking and continuous improvement processes, always from the viewpoint of economic success.

Our aim is to maintain workplaces and earnings in Germany.

Manufacturing in a high wage country such as Germany means not just that we have to keep a close watch on costs, but also that we must not lose sight of the advantages that manufacturing to German and EU standards bring.

This conforms to our ethical and moral values.

We value and appreciate our colleagues and pay close attention to appropriate qualifications so that we are able to manufacture our products to the defined quality standards. Only in this way can we guarantee the safety and performance of our medical footwear.

When selecting our suppliers we also search in particular for manufacturers in Europe who therefore comply with EU quality standards and are comparatively close to us so that resources are used consciously and sustainably. We also prefer suppliers who value sustainability and animal welfare and are able to provide evidence of this in the form of certificates.

Managing Director Sarah Constanze Schubert

widhts

The perfect fit of shoes depends on two important factors. In addition to the correct length, the right width is vital so that the foot neither moves around in the shoe nor is cramped. Shoe width is indicated by letters: The further the letter is from the beginning of the alphabet, the wider the shoe. However, if the wearer has broad feet or when orthopedic inserts are worn, space in many shoes quickly becomes too narrow.

As a width specialist, we therefore offer shoes for a wide range of foot widths. Width H is recommended for muscular or slightly swollen feet. If the foot needs additional space (perhaps with an insert), the oversize K is the right size. If feet are deformed or badly swollen, we recommend our L and R widths.

Widths overview

Standard width

for average feet

comfortable width

for strong or slightly swollen feet

overwidth

for very strong or severely swollen feet

bandage shoe width

for very severely swollen or bandaged feet

special width

for very thick bandages or lymphedema patients size conversion table - what does which width mean?

To help you gain a better idea of our widths, we have compared these with the customary clothes sizes. This does not mean that you need shoe width K if you take size L in clothes. The sole purpose of the table is to illustrate the amount of space available in each width.

width		definition
F	=	Extra Small
G	=	Small
Н	=	Medium
K	=	Large
L	=	Extra Large
R	=	Extra Extra Large

Widths overview - Diabetic shoes

For the best possible care of diabetic feet, our diabetic shoes have a well thought-out width system.

Diabetic width H - narrow feet with soft foam footbed or diabetic foot footbed.

Diabetic widths K & L - normal feet

The shoe width corresponds to the regular width L. For wear with soft foam footbed or diabetic footbed for normal feet. One last but complete flexibility. Width K is achieved by the addition of the insert provided. Without the insert, the shoe becomes width L.

You can find a detailed explanation of the width range of diabetic footwear starting on page 70.

How to measure correctly

Define the shape

When defining the shape, please look at the first two digits of the article number.

If the number is 31311 for instance, please use the table for shape 31. Measure the bare foot while standing.

Measuring the length of the foot

- Place the foot with the heel against the back of a book.
- Draw the outline on a sheet of paper (important: Hold the pencil straight and ensure the person's weight is distributed equally on all parts of the foot)
- Measure from the heel to the end of the foot
- Add 5 7 mm and select the next higher size in the row headed "length" in the table.

Measuring the volume of the foot

- Place the tape measure loosely round the widest part of the foot
- Look for the measurement in the row headed "volume" in the table
- If the figure is between two sizes, select the next higher size

Our sole types

A different view on our shoe soles and our manufacturing types worth knowing

At our location in Cham we sole the majority of our entire shoe production with direct injection of outer soles made of PU. This sole permanently merges with the insole material without the use of any additional glue. Foamed PU not only is a light material when it comes to weight, it can also be ground and shaped very well.

However, we also produce AGO style shoes. During this type of production, the prefabricated PU soles are glue to the strobed shafts. While doing so, we pay attention to high-quality processing and good glue quality. This enables a more flexible model design.

Furthermore, you can also find shoes with a hand seam within our range. This style is not only optically appealing, it also has the advantage that nearly no glue is used, however the shaft is still firmly attached to the sole and keeps its flexibility at the same time. Repair works can easily be executed - another bonus point in terms of sustainability.

Special shoes for patients with diabetes

We have developed a special width system for our diabetic shoes to provide optimum care for diabetic feet. You will find three widths (ranging from narrow (H)), to regular (K) and (L) which has the largest volume) among the icons marked DIA. Unlike normal shoe widths, this does not indicate the width pure and simple, but particularly the height of the last. In order to provide all our customers with the best possible service, our width (H) offers a footbed lift of up to 8 mm so that even narrow feet have sufficient support. In the case of widths (K) and (L) it is possible to accommodate even footbeds with up to 14 - 16 mm.

To make the selection of the correct width easier for you and to make our manufacturing more flexible, we have produced a shoe that combines the DIA widths (\mathcal{C}) and (\mathcal{C}) . By using a 3 mm insert that is supplied with every product, the width can be adjusted individually. You determine the specific support of the bed.

The height of the last of the (H) width model is 4 cm (measured from the insole, forefoot area 1.5 cm from the end of the shaft at the front). In the case of widths (H) and (H), 4.6 cm (measured from the insole, forefoot area 1,5 cm from the end of the shaft at the front).

Perfect adjustment options: Variable fasteners

Shaft (edge) and tongue are cushioned and "give" if required

Wide shaft opening so the shoe can be easily put on and taken off, and for checking the fit to the foot Special diabetic seamless lining and breathable lining material for an agreeable foot temperature

The anatomically shaped last provides sufficient space for additional foot deformities such as hallux valgus, hallux rigidus, hammer and claw toes.

The sole stiffening already incorporated into the shoe provides optimum support. The soles can also be shaped.

Sufficient space to accommodate an insert adapted for diabetic feet and/or a soft foam insert depending on the choice of width.
